The Business Way! The business way to advertise is to take space by the year, take pains with your advertisements in making them attractive, and change them at least as often as once a month.

You may think there are seasons when you don't need to advertise. We have never seen that time.

Use the dull seasons for looking over your stock and running off that which is becoming out of style or unfashionable, and giving bargains.

If you have space by the year, it costs you no more, and you can make profit by converting unsalable goods into money, and reinvesting the money in those things which are salable.

Where is That Banner Now? Greenberg (Ind.) Review—During the last campaign the Democrats of this city displayed a banner in their processions bearing this inscription:

VOTE FOR GROVER CLEVELAND AND ANOTHER FOR YOUR STATE.

A liberal reward will be paid for that banner at this office, and no questions asked.

The Sherman Act, according to Senator FRY, is not responsible for our financial woes, but Democratic constitution and administration of its provisions are.

The attention of our rooster-loving friends down street is respectfully invited to the fact that President THOMAS of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, has announced to his trainmen and operatives that on September 1st all employees receiving less than $300 per month have their salaries reduced 10 per cent. and all over that sum 20 per cent. Are these the "good times" you promised your deluded readers?

A CORRESPONDENT asks, in the name of "Many Readers," what is meant by free silver. It means that if, as now, the Government makes a coin containing 412 1/2 grains of solid silver a legal tender dollar, while that of weight of silver is only sixty-four cents in the bullion market, the Government should also coin anybody's 412 1/2 grains of silver into a dollar, free of charge, and give it back to him; thus giving the profit on coinage to the man who owns the silver, instead of the people.

STORM ECHOES.

The High Seas Cause an Awful Loss of Life.

To the List of Dead Can Be Added Eighteen More Victims.

Survivors of a Foundered Vessel Seven Hours on the Sea. The Captain, Excepted, Swept Overboard by the Cruel Waves.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Pilot Stephen Cooper came into harbor Friday morning, having been out through the storm. He reports that on Thursday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, while twenty miles off Sandy Hook, he picked up a man clinging to the mast-head of a smacked wreck. He proceeded to be the only survivor of the schooner Narragansett, Capt. Chase, bound from Philadelphia to Wareham, Mass., laden, which foundered that morning during the hurricane. The crew of five men were all lost, and the survivor was for seven hours on the water before being picked up. It was taken aboard the pilot boat in an exhausted condition. The seaman, when discovered, was washed to the schooner's mast, which was standing out of the water. The pilot boat lowered a boat and took him aboard.

His name was Henry Sosa, a Portuguese. The schooner Narragansett, he says, went down about 9 a.m., August 24, and Capt. Chase and five men were drowned. Her position was eighteen miles from Highlands, N. J.

Charles Kietzberger, of the fishing smack Malinda Wood, which was towed by the Narragansett, reports that on Wednesday night while about fourteen miles out, the vessel was struck by a hurricane, the vessel driven on her beam ends, the forecast carried away, and five of the crew swept overboard and drowned. The vessel had a crew of eight in all. Two of the survivors were badly injured. Kietzberger says the only member of the crew who came through unscathed.

Those who lost their lives in the storm were: John Vogan, first officer; John Henderson, able seaman; Arthur Johnson, able seaman. The only persons on board who were saved were: Capt. P. A. Peterson, Charles Crispen, the cook, and Charles Hasted, seaman, and all three of them were more or less injured. Capt. Peterson and Cook Crispen had to have their wounds dressed at the Chambers street hospital as soon as the ambulance could carry them from the dock. They were thrown aboard the deck during the hurricane.

The Melinda Wood belongs to Wallace & Kenney, of Fulton, reports that to Capt. Peterson. She was built in 1884, has a tonnage of twenty-six tons, is fifty-seven feet long over all, has six feet beam and is five feet deep. Mr. Kietzberger said to a reporter: "The second sea swept overboard every man except the captain, who was Kietzberger. He was carried back by a mass of broken timbers and tangled ropes forward of the deck house. The vessel was then smacked into the ocean threw the other two men aboard again, but left them almost lifeless, as Capt. Peterson, who continues the tale of the Melinda Wood, will testify.

"The poor fellows were nearly killed," said he Friday morning, as he narrated his injured life. "At the time, however, I did not know they had been saved, for I saw all my men go overboard when the second sea struck us. First, I was tangled among the falling rigging, and then, as the sea washed Crispen and Hasted back again, I was swept down into the forecastle."

He went on to say that the vessel was towed to sea early Thursday morning, and reports losing seven of her crew, whose names he did not know. The crew has probably drifted along the Jersey and Staten Island shores, as nothing has since been heard from them.

Cleveland to Return. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Private advice received Friday by Secretary Carlisle led him to expect President Cleveland in Washington Saturday. This is a week earlier than was expected, but it is believed that the president believed his presence may be of use in settling the course of legislation in the house after the Wilson repeal bill is disposed of Monday, and that he has hopes of hastening the action of the senate.

Mr. Vest summed up these figures in order to show that if all the silver dollars and substandard silver coin were coined at the ratio proposed in his bill (30 to 1) there would still be a profit to the treasury on the whole silver transaction since 1875 of $15,367,985. He limited pretty broadly that Mr. Carlisle, in his letter to Senator Voorhees on the same subject, had not tested the question fairly.

Mr. Hill then took the floor and began his speech, the opening paragraphs of which attracted much attention.

NEARLY BANKRUPT.

There are No Funds in the U. S. Treasury Except the Gold Reserve. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—As stated in these dispatches more than a week ago the treasury department is practically in a state of bankruptcy. There are no funds except the gold reserve, with which to defray the daily expenses of the government, and for some time past the treasury officials have been trying to hit upon some plan whereby the emptied vaults might be replenished, or the funds on deposit utilized to pay the obligations of the department.

At that time it was at first intended to introduce a bill in congress which should afford relief of some kind, but the probability of its being put to one side as long as the silver question engages the attention of the two houses, leads to the abandonment of that scheme. The urgent need of money, however, has forced the treasury department to take some decisive action, and Friday it was decided to pay off all obligations in gold.

This plan is the sequel to the action of the department three weeks ago, said Treasurer Morgan Friday. "At that time it was proposed to the various subtreasurers to make their payments in gold. We are now following the plan inaugurated in our subtreasuries and paying off all checks presented to us in gold."

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, has prepared a bill which will soon be introduced in the senate which is intended to exclude political influence in the appointment and removal of fourth-class postmasters.

THE SENATE. A Communication From the Director of WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Mr. Vest Friday sent to the clerk's desk and had read before the senate a communication from the director of the mint recommending the suspension of the silver dollar as a legal tender.

Mr. Vest summed up these figures in order to show that if all the silver dollars and substandard silver coin were coined at the ratio proposed in his bill (30 to 1) there would still be a profit to the treasury on the whole silver transaction since 1875 of $15,367,985.

ROTTERNESS.

For Years the Work Has Been Going On.

Receiver Hawkins Narrates a Very Graphic Story.

About the Mismanagement of the Indianapolis National Bank Receiver Hawkins.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—Receiver Hawkins appeared before the state tax commissioners Friday with a statement of reasons why no taxes should be assessed against the suspended Indianapolis national bank. The story is quite graphic in depicting the rottenness of the bank, running back for years. The receiver showed that in April last the curbed fair works, the glue company and eleven individuals had drawn $30,102 of bank funds, the same represented by notes.

Much of this paper had been issued from five to seven years ago, and in most instances renewed every ninety days. Not less than $30,000 of the $30,102 was secured from five to seven years ago. The notes were in the names of the employees of the bank and the tax duplicate does not show that these men are worth anything. There was no prospect of realizing more than $20,000 of the $30,000. In connection with the cabinet works and its associate plants there was $100,000 worth of paper on April 1. Since then the aggregate has increased.

The office book Co., for example, had $34,400 on April 1, and when the bank failed this had been increased to $44,000. The Coffins held nearly all of the offices in these companies, and they had branches in other cities which were not extensive concerns. From the information obtainable, on April 1, before hard times came on, the Indianapolis Cabinet works' paper, at a time when there was no prospect of realizing more than $20,000 of the $30,000, was $20,000 of this paper is now worthless.

Mr. Haughey held a mortgage of $20,000 to secure the bonds and cover any property which the company might have in New York, Boston and London, but it was not intended to cover the Indianapolis plants. There was $20,000 of other worthless paper in the bank on April 1, on which date the bank was carrying $200,000 of this kind of paper. All of this was returned as good to the county assessor, when it should have been charged off as worthless.

On the day it failed the bank had $800,000 in worthless paper. Claim was also made by the receiver that the dividend of 5 per cent. declared only was legal and should be paid back by the recipients. The receiver gave as his judgment that the bank had been real value was not known. The stock was really without value and a damage to it was legal and should be paid back by the recipients. THE HURRICANE Shook Old Mount Washington In Astonishing Fashion.

MT. WASHINGTON, N. H., Aug. 26.—The wind and rain storm, which was general in the White mountain region Thursday and Thursday night, was the most severe at the summit of Mt. Washington for the past twenty years at this season of the year. The day storm was a northeaster, and the wind blew as high as 125 miles an hour. During the evening the wind changed to north-west, and from 10 o'clock until day-break blew a perfect hurricane.

Between two and 3 o'clock Friday morning the wind reached its highest velocity—150 miles per hour. Some of the trees were blown down from top foundation, and the much alarmed guests left their beds and gathered about the office doors. The building, being braced and bolted to the rocks, no serious damage was done other than the blowing down of a chimney on the west and the breaking of the panes of glass in various buildings. Portions of old Tip-top house, which has quartered more prominent people than any other place in New Hampshire, was demolished. No one dared venture out as one could not stand on his feet.

Opposed by Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary Carlisle Friday sent to Senator Voorhees a letter touching the bill to extend the time during which whisky may be in bonded warehouses before penalties accrue. The secretary commends the proposition, saying that it would afford no relief to owners of goods in customs warehouses, and because the views of the commissioner of internal revenue that the amount of penalties assessed and to be assessed upon spirits in bonded warehouses is not sufficient to justify special legislation.

The Sale Postponed.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 26.—The contemplated sale of the West Superior and Steel Co.'s plant has been postponed until September 13. From K. Bellman, a millionaire capitalist, it is understood that the property will then pass into the hands of a group of moneyed men, who will run the works to their full capacity.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.

Caused by Carelessness.

The majority of people die sooner than they should. Evence of this fact is growing daily. Warning says: "Disease is not a consequence of life; it is due to unnatural conditions of living—neglect, abuse, want." Dr. Stephen Smith, on the same subject, says: "Man is born to health and long life; disease is unnatural, death, except from old age, is accidental, and both are preventable by human agencies." This is almost invariably true of death resulting from heart disease, cancer over-excitation, intemperance, use of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcohol or other stimulants are generally the causes of this disease, and indifference to the progress of results in sudden death, or long sickness ending in death. By the newspapers it can be seen that many prominent and hundreds of persons in private life die from heart disease every day.

For over 20 years Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent specialist, has made a profound study of heart disease, its causes and cures, and many of the leading diseases in that direction are due to him. His New Cure for Heart Disease is absolutely the only reliable remedy for the cure of heart disease, as is proved by thousands of testimonials from grateful persons who have used it.

James A. Pain, editor of the Corry, Pa. Leader, states: "After an apparent recovery from three months of largely heart disease, I was seized with a severe attack. In one month from that time I was unable to move, and my pulse beat from 35 to 110 times a minute. I used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and it once became stronger. After using six bottles I was able to walk and talk like a man, my pulse ranging from 60 to 80. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price $1.00. It is a truly free from opiate or dangerous drugs. It is sold by mail. Free book on druggists, or by mail.

REMARKABLE OCCURRENCE.

A Child Born After Its Mother's Interment.

BUFFALO, Ind., Aug. 26.—Tibbie Libby, an 18-year-old girl who lived about five miles north of here died Wednesday August 16, under very suspicious circumstances. On the following Saturday the coroner and fifty friends of the dead girl went to where she was buried, and dug up the body. When the lid to the coffin was raised a horrible sight met their gaze. The body was turned partially over in the coffin. By the side of the dead woman was a child which had been born after interment. John Raush, a married man, at whose home Mrs. Libby had remained for some time, and whom she claimed had ruined her, was arrested and lodged in jail charged with her murder. BLACK FRIDAY.

Colored People of the Nation at the Fair.

Douglas and Sissieretta Jones, the Black Patti, Chief Entertainers.

Well-Dressed and Well-Mannered Through—They Had a Well-Reviewed Program of Songs and Music, at the Festival Hall.

World's Fair, Chicago, Aug. 26.—

Trains arriving in Chicago Thursday night and Friday morning carried a goodly number of colored people. They came from all points adjacent to this city, and a fair portion were from the far off southern states. The most distinguished men of the black race were among those at the grandly-entertained in an orderly manner and acted proudly. They had an interesting programme to observe at festival hall, where their best orators made speeches, the address by Frederick Douglass on the "Race Problem in America" being masterly in logic and eloquent in tone. Sissieretta Jones, known as the Black Patti, sang several numbers on the programme, and each time they were heartily cheered. Violin music was furnished by the talented Ernest Dunbar.

By special request, Col. Cody with his whole army of world famed riders arrived at the grounds Friday morning and the military police of the fair, in a grand procession, passed a special order at its meeting Thursday providing for this entertainment and the announcement of the names of the speakers.

Financial matters of the exposition are looking brighter. Vice President Peck, chairman of the finance committee, says that there will soon be no floating debt. The entire amount due contractors is now something less than $600,000, and a few such days as Thursday will wipe that out. It is added that if the general prediction of increased attendance from now on is realized the fair will close an unprecedented success in every way as well as financially. The finance committee is so well pleased with the general showing made by Auditor Adolphus Thurnau that it is considering the advisability of recommending the payment of a third installment of 10 or 20 per cent. on debenture bonds.

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS

Compelled to Organize to Protect Themselves Against the City.

EMER, Pa., Aug. 26.—Depredations of garden thieves have become so numerous and bold that farmers have organized under the title of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Protective League. The league is organized from the city and gardens and fields, and some stock has been run off. A farmer named Ott reported that sixteen men in two wagons looted his garden. Ott remonstrated, but was driven into the field at the point of a revolver. The gang filled the wagons with cabbage, corn, etc., and drove off. They said they did not propose to allow themselves or their families to starve.

Causes of Highway Robbery

occurred Thursday night. In each case the victim was brutally beaten and relieved of valuables. Young Ralston, who tried to prevent robbers from breaking into his store, is injured so badly that he is likely to suffer serious consequences.

The New Liberty Bell.

TRIO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Columbian Liberty bell, in which were two more revolutionary relics, was shipped from the McNeely Bell Foundry to New York Friday night. It was accompanied by a delegation of the American Daughters of the Revolution. On its arrival in New York the bell will be taken to the Pennsylvania railroad, when it will be taken to Philadelphia.

St. Louis to Chicago.

McDonald's plan is to have the bell travel by day, stopping at all the principal cities.

Prairie Fire.

MONROEVILLE, Ill., Aug. 26.—An extensive prairie fire, sweeping the region southwest of this city. It started about noon Thursday on the line of the Chicago & Indiana Southern, about six miles from here, and has swept over several thousand acres. It has already crossed the state line and swept along in the direction of Lake Village, Ind.

Is Coley Dodder?

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—A man was killed near Gainesville, Ga., Friday morning, who it is thought was Coley Dodder, a notorious outlaw. He recently killed an engineer at Gadsden, Ga. A Gainesville policeman located him at a widow's house. He made a rush at the party with a raised pistol, when he was shot dead.

Panicky Times in Heaven.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 26.—Further, the bogus messiah, with one of his prettiest angels, visited many residences on the east side Friday morning, and offered a large quantity of sweet corn and other vegetables. The bogus Savior says the panicky times have struck "Heaven."

THE HEROES OF ROMANCE

They Are Seldom Taken from the Middle Classes.

Strictly Speaking, There Are But Two Normal Heroes of Fiction, and They Are the Warrior and the Fairy Prince.

It is lamentable, indeed, when you come to reflect on it, how large a proportion of useful and respectable writings falls under the ban of romance. What poet or romancer ever made his first lover, for example, a ballet or a beauty? Yet ballets and beauties are men and brothers. They may do their oftentimes dangerous duty with the dash of a Rupert, or the cool courage of a Cromwell, says Macmillan's Magazine, yet they are frankly impossible as heroes of romance. Do Quincey makes a remark somewhere to the effect that one would not be inclined to think highly of a man who, in the absence of predisposing circumstances, deliberately and for the love of the business decided to be a butcher. Yet butchers are husbands and fathers, and have blood in their veins as well as on their aprons. As a matter of statistics, I believe hardly a day passes but some solicitor falls in love; yet no court of love or literature will give him audience as a lover, nor take cognizance of his pleadings. The least of the stockbroker is swayed by the bears and bulls of passion no less than by the subtler influences of financial speculation. Yet his name is never recorded in the more than royal exchange of romance. Then, with one stroke of the pen, romance rules out the whole enormous mob of real traders. They are not altogether absent from the pages of romance, these worthy citizens. Only they have to forego the heroic parts and put up with being supernumeraries or villains or comic characters. About the butcher I am doubtful. Not even Dickens, I think, found room for a butcher and his Babylon of trades. Nor with Shakespeare is it any matter. Quincey the carpenter, Scug the joiner, Loom the weaver, Flute the bellows-blower, Snout the tinker, and Starveling the tailor, are very well to play the fool, to divert the duke and to be translated of them, not even Bottom translated, is a fit object for a lady's love. As the democratic Whittman has complained, in a Shakespearean play the mass of industrious citizens is just a mob to throw up its seventy night-caps in some Caesar's honor at the bidding of an Antony. What is to be about a trade thus to impede a man for a romance?

Strictly speaking there are but two normal heroes of romance, the warrior and the fairy prince. If there is no fairy prince at hand, an ordinary prince will do. The English duke is, as the American moralist rightly enough has divided, only a modern variety of fairy prince. To be mistaken for a fairy prince the English duke no doubt needs to be looked at from the through of the Atlantic. Seen at close quarters, in the house of lords, on the race course or in the law courts, he is apt to appear fleshy. But he has the essential attribute of the fairy prince, which is rarity. There are but two dozen or so of him all told, and most of these have been bespoken and used up. He has besides, for the American girl, another of the essential secrets of romance—he is exotic. It is the good fortune and fascinating fashion of the fairy prince to descend always from some unknown upper and diviner air. That it is which makes the Prince Charming of the fairy tale so irresistible. So it was that Cupid came to Psyche, to cherish her with his secret and invisible godhead. So Perseus floated on winged sandals through the welcoming air to Andromeda's feet to slay the monster. So Lohengrin came flashing in a swan-drawn skiff from the mysterious halls of the Holy Grail, to champion maiden innocence against treachery and slander. The fairy prince, you see, commonly includes the warrior's part, and is doubly irresistible coming in the nick of time to fight a distressed damsel's battles and to slay her dragons. You may depend upon it that what tells chiefly with the girl against the eminently respectable race of bankers and brewers and doctors and lawyers is their appalling commonness, their frequency, their lack of familiarity. What should there be in one brass plate out of a dozen in the same street to throw a romantic girl off her cautious balance? When the modern novelist would smother the professional high hat with the aureole of romance, he tricks out his same hero to mimic the traditional advantages of prince or champion.

HIS PLAINTIVE PLEA.

What He Thought She Should Have Added to Her Seduction.

He had loved her very tenderly and for a long time, but she had scorned him, says the Detroit Free Press.

He was no worse either, for he would have turned when trod upon, but she recked not this.

It was enough for her that she did not care for him.

This is usually enough for any woman. Also for any man, when the boot is on the other foot.

For of such is the kingdom of Cupid. His condition had at last become unbearable to him, and he had resolved to win all or lose all.

It was late one evening when the fateful moment arrived.

"Will you marry me?" he asked her in plain, untrammelled English, for he could trust himself to nothing in the ornamental line.

She snarled him scornfully.

"No!" she replied with sarcastic, hateful, cruel emphasis.

The word pierced the heart in his bosom. His lips quivered and at first he could not speak.

"Have you no more to say?" he asked at last plaintively.

"No, sir," she replied. "What more could I say?"

"I didn't know," he murmured tremulously, "but I think you might have said 'No, I thank you'."
